

I've accepted an offer from BU. It was a tough decision but I was awarded a full scholarship and their small department in English Education is a motivated bunch.

Thanks for your email. I would be happy to share my plans. I'll be attending the Teacher Education Program at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. They accepted me into their Urban Scholars program, and I still intend to teach in an urban school after graduation. The Urban Scholars program includes a full-tuition scholarship, and I was awarded a stipend in addition to the scholarship. It was a pleasure applying to Tufts and to the Urban Teacher Training Collaborative. Thank you again for all your help!

I declined because of financial reasons and cost of living. Another university offered me full tuition as well as a generous stipend. Having the full tuition paid for as well as a stipend to live off of makes my other financial obligations less daunting.

Money played a pretty big role in it. Rice offered me a full ride so that definitely helped with the overall package. It also had a little to do with the location; I was a more comfortable with the idea of Houston versus Boston. Those were the primary reasons for my decision. Even with that being said, I think I can safely speak on behalf of the other two IRT applicants when I say that Tufts definitely went above and beyond to accommodate us and that was greatly appreciated!

Thank you for understanding.

I am comfortable answering the second part of your evaluation. I've decided to attend Boston College and will be a part of the Donovan Urban Teaching Scholars Program. I sincerely hope that we can remain in contact as we will be in the same city. I look forward to our future conversations.

I believe I could be a good fit for the Tufts MAT program. It was difficult for me to make my decision; however, after much thought and consideration, I have decided to accept a more competitive offer from another school.

At the last minute, Brown offered me an additional $12,000 in scholarship money. I spent a couple days mulling over my options. Especially after speaking with you, I had such a great impression of the Tufts program. I really felt after talking to you that Tufts is committed not only to preparing great teachers, but also to the cause of social justice. The choice was a very difficult one, but I'm writing to let you know that I have decided to attend Brown. I'm deeply sorry for any inconvenience this may cause you or anyone else in the MAT program. I hope you understand. Thank you again for the time you spent interviewing me and answering my questions about the program. I sincerely appreciate it and wish you all the best.

I have made a grad school decision. I have decided to accept BU's offer. They offered me a full scholarship, which was simply too much for me to turn down. When I visited Tufts I thought it was a very vibrant, energetic place filled with tremendous people, and I do believe it would have been an excellent fit for me, but purely for financial reasons I have to choose BU. Thank you so much for all that you personally and Tufts has done for me.

Sorry that it took me a few days to get back to you. I was waiting till I had all of the numbers to answer your question. I am going to Harvard on a full scholarship. I have been selected as a Zuckerman Fellow. The fellowship pays for the entirety of my tuition, health insurance, and fellows also receive a $15,500 stipend. Harvard originally offered me a generous financial aid packet, but I was still in the process of interviewing for the fellowship when you had emailed me. Thank you again for all of your help and consideration. I genuinely think Tufts has a great program and know that I would have received a first rate education there.

Even though I have already sent in my official forms, I just wanted to let you know personally that I will not be enrolling at Tufts next fall. It was a very tough decision for me, because I thought that the program at Tufts was excellent, but I ultimately decided to pursue a MA in History at another university that granted me a significant scholarship. Thank your help and for answering all of my questions about licensure and the program in general. As I still may seek a degree in education in the future, I remain interested in all that Tufts has to offer. Thank you again.
